Key Takeaways

Fireproof cable trays in South Africa typically range from R2.00 to R5.00 per unit for standard models, with high-end or custom fireproof trays priced higher. Price Overview

Fireproof cable trays, including FRP (Fiber Reinforced Plastic) and specialized stainless steel models, are available across various suppliers in South Africa. Standard industrial-grade trays generally fall within R2.00 to R5.00, which balances affordability with quality for large-scale projects. High-end or custom-sized fireproof trays, particularly those with certifications or heavy-duty specifications, are priced above this range due to superior materials and specialized manufacturing .

Material and Supplier Considerations

- FRP and fireproof trays: Lightweight, corrosion-resistant, and suitable for environments requiring fire safety compliance .
- Stainless steel trays: Offer higher durability and fire resistance, often used in critical industrial or commercial installations .

- Heavy-duty or custom trays: Designed for niche applications, these may have longer lead times and higher costs but provide enhanced safety and longevity .

Purchasing Tips

- Compare suppliers such as Liteglo, Vulcania, and Online Electrical Store for availability, delivery options, and pricing .
- Consider tray size, load capacity, and fire certification when evaluating prices, as these factors significantly influence cost.
- For large projects, bulk orders may reduce per-unit costs, while custom or low-volume items will be more expensive . By understanding the material, size, and certification requirements, buyers can select fireproof cable trays that meet both safety standards and budget constraints in South Africa.
