

Which company specializes in Russian electrical distribution boxes

Overview

Headquartered in Wenzhou, China's premier electrical manufacturing cluster, Wenzhou Bowser Electric Co., Ltd.

Key Takeaways

Leading Russian manufacturers of electrical distribution boxes include IEK, EKF, and HENSEL, offering a wide range of modular, power, and industrial enclosures. IEK

IEK, based in Moscow, is a prominent Russian manufacturer of electrical equipment, including modular distribution boxes, cabinets, and accessories. Their products are designed for construction, housing, communal services, and industrial enterprises, meeting Russian operating conditions. IEK emphasizes high-quality raw materials, modern production technologies, and strict quality control in their own research laboratory. They offer a broad range of products such as circuit breakers, differential protection devices, metering and monitoring equipment, and cable laying systems .

EKF

EKF Group specializes in distribution enclosures, wiring accessories, control and instrumentation devices, and automation solutions. Operating in Eastern Europe and beyond, EKF manufactures IEC- and CE-certified products in ISO 9001-certified facilities. Their offerings include low-voltage distribution boxes, smart home solutions, and industrial electrical panels, with a focus on energy efficiency and reliability. EKF also provides extensive testing and quality assurance, ensuring compliance with international standards .

HENSEL

HENSEL, while originally a German brand, has a strong presence in Russia through local distribution. They produce junction boxes, distribution enclosures, switchgear, and modular device boxes. HENSEL products are known for innovative terminal technology (FIXCONNECT), all-weather enclosures, and compatibility for creating full switchgear systems. Their catalog includes over 200 items, covering residential, commercial, and industrial applications .

Summary

These manufacturers provide a comprehensive selection of electrical distribution boxes suitable for various applications, from residential installations to industrial power distribution. When choosing a supplier, consider factors such as product certification, modularity, environmental resistance, and local support. IEK and EKF are fully Russian companies with domestic production, while HENSEL operates internationally but is widely available in Russia. For procurement, you can contact their local offices or authorized distributors to obtain technical specifications, pricing, and delivery options .
